

If You Want To Go To College DEBT-FREE This Book is For You!

Anthony Moore has won over $118,000 in scholarship funds from more than 35 separate scholarships. He has written scholarship essays that have beaten out competition from Harvard University, MIT, Duke University, New York University, Howard University, and many other premiere universities. So how did this product of one of Chicago's roughest neighborhoods who attended an inner city college beat out the best and brightest from some of the nation's most elite universities? In this book he shares how!

In this book you will discover:

- How to shape and tell YOUR story in scholarship essays and applications so YOU win scholarship dollars!
- How YOU—regardless of age, color, or background—will edge out the competition!
- How YOU—regardless of whether you are financially well off or in financial need, go to an elite university or smaller university, are very outgoing or more laid back—will win scholarships!
- How YOU—whether you are a great writer or not good at writing—can master the crucial task of writing dynamic scholarship essays!
- How the number and type of scholarships you win can greatly impact the overall quality of your life!
- How you can use some of the same strategies as self-made billionaires to win scholarships!
- How to harness and strengthen your creativity to set yourself apart!
- How to not get beaten by a system that's designed to make many fail!
- How even if you come from a rich family you will benefit from scholarships!
- How to search for and find scholarships that fit your unique circumstances!

Anthony Moore exemplifies the human ability to embrace excellence. He emerged from inner city Chicago through choosing to triumph over the peer pressure and negative conditions that pervaded his native environment. Instead of traveling the dead-end paths of many of his peers and predecessors—including his three-time felon older brother who died in prison—Anthony completed his undergraduate collegiate studies at the top of his class and graduated with high honors from graduate school. Anthony's winning attitudes and determination led him to win a wide variety of scholarships that enabled him to self-finance his undergraduate and graduate studies. Through his company, Positive Prerogatives Inc., he teaches and fosters the harnessing of winning attitudes and success, along with sharing his gift for winning scholarships.
